COMMITTEE FOR CURATORIAL PROMOTION **

Preamble

The Committee for Curatorial Promotion of the National Gallery of Canada (NGC) will consider promotions from Associate Curator at L/N-8 level to Curator at L/N-10 level and from Assistant Curator at L/N 07 level to Associate Curator at L/N-8 level. This standard provides for the recognition of outstanding performance by individuals who, in the judgment of the committee, merit promotion on the basis of the quality and importance of their research and curatorial contributions, even though their duties do not correspond to all factor requirements stated in the standard, such as the requirement for the direction of the work of other professionals. **

This Committee will be made up of the Deputy Director and Chief Curator, Director, Human Resources (ex-officio), the Curator responsible for the area in which the candidate works and either a Curator from an another area of the Gallery or an outside expert in the candidate's field of research when no Curator at the National Gallery has this specific expertise. The decision of the Committee shall be that of the majority of the voting members.

This committee will meet on a tri-yearly basis with consideration of the candidates' submissions normally being scheduled during September of every third year. The first evaluation under this process will occur in September 1998.

Procedures for Submission

When a candidate, at either level L/N-7 or L/N-8, or his/her supervisor has determined that the candidate's research and curatorial contribution merits consideration for promotion through this Committee, the following procedures should be followed: **

- a) A submission must be made initially to the Deputy Director and Chief Curator.
- b) When the Deputy Director and Chief Curator is in agreement with the proposal, he/she shall call together the committee, and defend the candidates' submission.

All submissions shall contain, as a minimum, the following:

1. Name
2. Education (university, specializations, etc...)
3. Scholarships, awards, grants, etc. (names, dates and contributions).

4. Positions held in reverse chronological order that are relevant to the application submitted including duties and places. The position held at the time of application should be described in detail.
5. Research: types, subjects, and dates.
6. Publication: books, articles, commentaries, reports, etc. Each shall be identified in chronological order. Their place of publication shall also be identified and a few lines explaining the subject discussed should be provided. Samples of the various publications are required. (These will be returned to the employee whenever so required).
7. Acquisitions: works of art acquired for the collection through gift or purchase should be listed alphabetically by artist, giving title, date and medium. The justifications prepared for these acquisitions should be provided with the list.
8. Exhibitions and Installations: each shall be identified in chronological order. A few lines, describing the content, location and nature of the exhibition (major exhibition, loan exhibition, traveling exhibition, in house installation etc.) should be provided.
9. Performance appraisal: the candidate's last performance appraisal must be attached in addition to an appraisal written especially for the submission to the committee.
10. Lists of persons providing references with a note explaining their respective qualifications: this list should not be limited to professors or thesis directors. It should also contain names of specialists working in the same discipline as the candidate who are known at the national and international levels.
11. Copies of letters of reference: the employee's supervisor may also submit names of other persons able to provide pertinent information on the candidate. In such cases, the supervisor shall provide a brief explanation as to the referee's qualifications. In the same way the Committee can also add to these lists of references at its discretion.

The composition of the committee is subject to its own ongoing review. At the committee's discretion, it has the right to invite other persons, in light of specific submissions to be reviewed, to become interim members of the committee with full voting rights.

There are three main areas in which candidates must show themselves deserving of consideration by the Committee:

- a) products of research and curatorial activities such as publications, exhibits, acquisitions and films;

- b) the day-to-day performance in the duties of their position; and
- c) contributions to professional activities outside the workplace.

The norm usually applied to this committee when formulating recommendations for promotion is as follows:

- promotion to the L/N-8 level would require evidence of professional commitment with significant contributions to the advancement of knowledge in the candidate's field beyond that normally expected at the L/N-7 level;
- promotion to the L/N-10 level would require consistently exceptional contributions to the advancement of knowledge resulting in a broadly based national recognition and, where the field has wider application outside the country rather than inside, international recognition.

It must be emphasized that each case is judged on its own merits.

The Committee will inform the Director of the National Gallery of Canada in writing of its recommendation. This recommendation will normally be done within ten (10) days of the meeting of the Committee.

The Director's decision in either accepting or rejecting the recommendation of the Committee shall be final and binding on all parties.

All promotions made under this process will take effect in September of the year where the promotion cycle normally starts. **

It is the responsibility of the Deputy Director and Chief Curator to brief the candidate and others concerned on the reasons for the decision. The Deputy Director and Chief Curator will normally provide this information within ten (10) days of being informed of the Director's decision.

Classification

- 2) The Employer agrees to consult with the Institute as per Article 40 regarding the process of Job Classification for PIPSCS.
- 3) PIPSCS representatives including PIPSC staff expert in classification, will participate in a joint classification committee to rate and evaluate positions and PIPSC employees shall be provided with time off to participate. Materials related to standards and benchmarks will be made available to PIPSC representatives.
- 4) Both parties will have the option of taking any unresolved decisions from this joint committee for rating by an agreed upon classification specialist.
- 5) October 1, 2006 will be the effective date of the implementation of the classification conversion.
