This clause also applies to part-time employees who work a forty (40) hour week. The Company agrees that when employees are called into work on their day off, the Company will not alter schedules later in the week for the purpose of reducing the foregoing benefit.
- 10.04 For the purposes of computing hours of work, it is understood that rest periods shall be included but the meal of an employee is not included. It is understood that rest period will be fifteen (15) minutes in duration. It is also understood rest periods will be scheduled as near midway between the starting of the shift and lunch break, and mid-shift between lunch break and the end of the shift.

- 10.17 Every six (6) months, or more frequently if necessitated by business demand, the Company would offer a schedule of available shifts, complete with scheduled starting times and scheduled days off, to all employees within the classification and department. Full-time employees within the department and classification would be invited to select, in order of departmental seniority, their preference of shift from those available. Any remaining shifts would be offered to part-time employees within the department and classification in order of their departmental seniority.

In the event of approved leave of absence or illness/vacation, temporary appointments may be made by the Company, according to seniority. An employee who is absent for any reason during the shift bidding process will be notified and will choose their shift by proxy. The re-bidding of shifts will not occur if an employee chooses not to bid on a shift by proxy.

- 10.18 The Company shall agree that there will be twelve (12) hours between shifts, unless mutually agreed between the employee and the Company.
