#4 Workplace Harassment Policy

Compass Group Canada has developed a company-wide policy intended to prevent workplace harassment of its employees and to deal quickly and effectively with any incident that might occur.

Definition of Workplace Harassment: “A course of vexatious comments or conduct that is known or ought reasonably to be known to be unwelcome”.

These are the four (4) main types of harassment:

- (a) Sexual Harassment
- (b) Personal Harassment
- (c) Poisoned Work Environment
- (d) Bullying

What is Sexual Harassment?

Sexual harassment is any unwelcome behaviour which is sexual in nature and, directly or indirectly, adversely affects, or threatens to affect, a person’s job security, prospects of promotion or earnings, working conditions or opportunity to secure a job, living accommodations, or any kind of public service. Sexual harassment is usually an attempt by one person to exercise perceived power over another.

What Constitutes Sexual Harassment?

There are many ways in which sexual harassment can be expressed, from the very subtle to the most overt. These include:

- Suggestive remarks or compromising invitations
- The display of suggestive pictures/material
- Leering or whistling
- Unwelcome physical contact, such as patting or rubbing
- Outright demands for sexual favours
- Sexual assault

What is Personal Harassment?

Personal harassment involves hostile, obnoxious, or intimidating behaviour or behaviour which ought reasonably to have been known to be hostile, obnoxious, or intimidating.

What Constitutes Personal Harassment?

Personal harassment occurs when behaviour towards a person or group of people is hostile, obnoxious, or intimidating because of a personal dislike, personality conflict, or any other prohibited ground of discrimination listed in this policy.

What is a Poisoned Work Environment?

A poisoned work environment exists in a workplace where there is any hostile, intimidating, or offensive activity or behaviour, which may or may not be directed at a specific individual, and is based on one of the prohibited grounds listed in this policy.

What Constitutes a Poisoned Work Environment?

A hostile or poisoned workplace can be created by such things as graffiti, sexual insults, racial slurs, sexual and racial jokes, or the display of offensive material. The hostile behaviour need not refer specifically to a person's race, colour, place of origin, etc. For example, if someone of a different race is consistently made the subject of practical jokes or ridicule, it may be inferred that the treatment is racially motivated, even though references to race may not have been made. This is called differential treatment.

What is Bullying?

Bullying is an abuse of power or position.

What Constitutes Bullying?

Bullying can include persistently negative attacks on personal and professional performance. Such attacks are typically unpredictable, irrational and often unwitnessed. Bullying is often the result of one individual exercising undue power over another. Normally, but not always, it occurs between a Manager and a subordinate over whom the Manager has the power to hire and fire.

N.B. These examples, while not fully comprehensive, capture the essence of the most common workplace harassment behaviours and attitudes.

Unacceptable behaviour of this nature need not be intentional in order to be considered harassment. All of us have a responsibility to ensure that our workplace is free from harassment of any kind.

As well, Compass forbids any form of discrimination based on the following:

Age, creed, family and marital status, sexual orientation, gender/sex-related characteristics including pregnancy, physical size or weight, political belief or activity within the law, mental/physical disability, record of offences, source of income, an irrational fear of contracting an illness or disease, and membership or association with others whose identity is determined by any prohibited ground of discrimination listed in this policy.

Procedure

A. If you feel you are being harassed:

1. Say "NO": – Tell the individual his/her behaviour is unwelcome and ask him/her to stop.
2. Keep a record of incidents: (dates, times, locations, possible witnesses, your response). You do not have to have a record of events in order to file a complaint, but a record can strengthen your case and help you remember details over time. Guidance is always available from your Manager or Human Resources.
3. File a Complaint: If the harassment continues after you have asked the harasser to stop, report the problem to your immediate Manager/Supervisor or one level above, or to Human Resources.

You also have the right to contact your local Human Rights Commission to file a complaint. If circumstances warrant, e.g., in the case of assault, you have the right to file a charge with the police. However, we encourage all employees to share their concerns with us whenever possible to afford us the opportunity to take immediate investigative and/or remedial action.

B. Dealing with a Complaint

1. Once a complaint is received, it will be kept strictly confidential. An investigation will be undertaken immediately.
2. The complainant and the alleged harasser will both be interviewed along with any individuals who may be able to provide relevant information.

3. If the investigation reveals evidence to support the complaint or workplace harassment, the harasser will be disciplined appropriately. This may include suspension or dismissal.

NOTE: Regardless of the outcome of the workplace harassment complaint made in good faith, the employee lodging the complaint, as well as anyone providing information, will be protected from any form of retaliation by either co-workers or superiors. This includes demotion, unwanted transfer, denial of opportunities within the Company, as well as harassment of the individual as a result of having made a complaint or having provided evidence regarding a complaint.

C. Responsibility of Management

It is the responsibility of any person supervising one or more employees to take immediate action regarding any reported or known incidents of harassment.

Compass Group Canada seeks to provide a safe, healthy and rewarding work environment for its associates. Workplace harassment will not be tolerated within this Company! If you feel you have experienced workplace harassment, report it. We want to hear from you.

#5 Premiums and Incentive Programs

Occasionally the Company has implemented additional premiums and incentive plans for recruitment and retention reasons.

In the event the Company decides during the term of this agreement that additional premiums and/or incentives are necessary; the Company agrees to provide documentation to the Union and obtain approval in writing from the Union before implementation.

In the event that the Company decides that any current or future additional premiums and incentives are no longer necessary, it will give the Union and affected employees one (1) month's notice before eliminating or reducing them.

The Parties agree to act in good faith in this matter.

It is understood that this does not include specific premiums listed in Appendix "A".
